DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Claims 15-20 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 7/21/05.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1,4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Japanese '195. This publication shows a system including grinding, classifying, subsequent classifying, and regrounding of oversize material.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5,14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japan '195. The use of sieves for classification purposes is well known in the art and of no patentable merit. Therefore, the use of a sieve in Japan '195 would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art. Also, the material being treated does not further limit the apparatus.

Claims 2,6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japan '195 as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Japan '735. Japan '195 does not provide for a third classification step which may result in unwanted sized product. Japan '735 solves this problem by disclosing similar apparatus including the use of a third classification means. In order to provide for the desired product, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Japan '195 by providing a third classification means, taught to be desirable by Japan '735.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japan '195 as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Japan '819. Japan '195 does not disclose the type of mill used in the system. Japan '819 discloses a similar system including the use of a ball mill. It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Japan '195 by using a ball mill, taught to be desirable by Japan '819.

Claims 9,11/9,12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japan '195 as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Japan '464. Japan '195 does not disclose a means for removing iron. Japan '464 discloses a similar system including an iron removing means. In order to provide for the removal of iron, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to provide iron removal means, taught to be desirable by Japan '464. Note the average particle size obtained would have been a design choice only based on several features such as starting material size and desired end product.

Claims 10,11/10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japan '195 in view of Japan '735 as applied to claim 2 above, and further in view of Japan '464. See the above paragraph for the use of Japan '464.
